"OLD SI STEBBINS"

A New England Pastoral Play, Comes To the Grand Next Thursday Evening.

All rural plays seem to be popular with our theatregoers, and "Old Stebbins," which will be seen at the Traders Grand open house Dec. 1. will no doubt meet with their approval. Toplay deals with life in a New England state (in the country) and the quaint characters in the cast are true to life Waile the express purpose of the comedy is to create laughter, still it ans a concrent plot that is well carried out and contains many incidents and situa tions that are funny in the extreme. Dan Darleigh as Si Stebbins is excellent his impersonations being free from vulgarism and objectionable features and refined in every detail. The supporting company is large and competent and the performance is greatly enlivened by the specialties given by Dan Dar leigh, Henri LaVardo, Louise DeWitt Hazel Darleign, James Greer and Pauline Soules. The superb band and or chestra are also entitled to notice for their excellent work.
